

Tree Trimming Report 11/12/2021

Here's what the area I was working last looks like now with what I cut, picked up and placed in the parking lot piles. Not done with this area, but will come back at a later date so that I can get a more overall level of work done.

The following are before photos of the area I have moved to next. This area is either under or close to the power lines, so I am doing what I can that won't harm the lines and get them before they become a problem.

The photo on the next page is work completed Monday & Wednesday this week.

Friday's Work - Much better now, time for some clean up. A few more to cut just left of frame though.
