More Recent History

GP18 1790, owned by long-time WP subsidiary Central California Traction Company, strolls down Lodi Avenue in the summer of 1997. Part of the original CCT, this track has less than a year left before regular service ends. Today, the CCT still serves Lodi, although it no longer runs west of Highway 99. The old interurban has also ceased running into Sacramento. However, it has new customers, a rebuilt Lodi-Stockton mainline and booming business at the Port of Stockton, giving this still operating part of the WP family a bright future.

Mission Statement

"The Feather River Rail Society is dedicated to the preservation, interpretation and education of the public, as to the history and people of the Western Pacific Railroad."

Mission Goals

To preserve and interpret the history of the WP, the "Willing People" as a vital link in the development of the rail industry on the West Coast, including the steam and diesel evolution, WP's influence in the passenger tourism industry, the impact of freight competition between neighboring railroads. WP's influence in the lumber, mining and agriculture industry from Plumas County throughout California, Nevada and Utah.
