From the PRESIDENT'S DESK Norman Holmes

Some of our workers are not picking up after themselves. Whenever you work on a project and are through for the day clean up your work area and put away any tools or equipment used on the project. All of our time is valuable--if you don't clean up, someone else will have to do your work. If tools are not returned to their proper place, time is wasted searching for them. Everyone can help by establishing good work habits. Thanks.

SAFETY TIP of the MONTH

We all know we shouldn't step on the top of a rail, but did you know why? It is because if you slip, a 4'  $8\frac{1}{2}$ " distance between the rails is just right for you to hit your head on the other rail. Seriously, the top of the rail is slippery, so get into the habit of stepping over the rail.

Also, don't sit on a rail unless you want to get branded. Overheard recently from a roadmaster; with the air temperature of 98°, the temperature of the rails was 128°.
