Caboose WP 614 Looks Great With Its New Paint Job!

WP Caboose 614 is shown on the Museum grounds looking striking in its new silver and orange paint scheme! These cabooses were nicknamed "Canyon Cabooses" since the extended ends helped protect the crews from wind, rain and snow while standing on the back platform. Although it is over 57 years old (built in 1937-retired sometime after June 1953), our caboose still retains its original handrails, bunks, toilet and wood burning stove! After mounting on a new set of Andrews leaf spring trucks and repairs to the roof, WP 614 will hopefully be back on her feet again this summer! Caption by John S. Walker. Photo by Ed Warren.
